

Vastu Tips for Plants and Trees at Home

Plants, trees, and flowers are a beautiful way to bring nature into our homes. They don't just make our surroundings look good – they calm our minds, refresh our senses, and create a positive atmosphere.

But how do you know which plants are best for your home? This is where Vastu Shastra – the ancient Indian science of design and placement – can guide us.

Why Vastu for Plants and Trees Matters

Think about the last time you visited a hill station, bird sanctuary, or nature park. Didn't you feel fresh, relaxed, and happy? That's the power of nature!

- Greenery around us makes us healthier and more peaceful.
- Plants help us feel calm, improve focus, and even bring prosperity.
- Right placement of plants ensures positive energy flows through your home.

Even if you don't have space for a garden, you can fill your balcony or indoor corners with potted plants to enjoy these benefits.

Vastu Tips for Planting Trees and Plants

Here are some simple Vastu guidelines to follow when planting around your home:

Tall Trees

- Plant taller trees like coconut in the west or southwest direction.
- Make sure their shadow doesn't fall on the house and that they don't block sunlight.

Shrubs

- Best planted in the north or east side of the garden.
- Avoid large trees in these areas since they block the morning sun.

Large Oxygen-Producing Trees

- Peepal and Banyan trees are great for oxygen, but plant them away from the house foundation to prevent damage.

Trees to Avoid

- Trees that attract worms, owls, or insects
- Flower-shedding trees that create too much mess in summer

Trees to Plant

- Neem, coconut, mango, amla, pineapple – these bring health and positivity.

Vastu for Indoor & Potted Plants

Good Plants

- Tulsi (Basil): A sacred and highly beneficial plant. Place it in the East, North, or Northeast part of your home.
- Jasmine: Sweet fragrance, perfect for decoration and pooja, and brings positivity.

Plants to Avoid

- Thorny Plants (except roses): Attract negativity.
- Creepers & Climbers: Can damage walls. Exception – money plant (considered lucky).
- Bonsai Plants: Symbolize stunted growth and may bring bad energy.

Final Thoughts

By following these Vastu tips for plants and trees, you can:

- Create a peaceful and refreshing environment
- Invite good health, wealth, and prosperity into your home
- Maintain harmony and positive energy

If you want a personalized garden layout based on Vastu principles, consult a professional Vastu expert for best results.